Quick first decision turn-around time

Trends in Molecular Sciences dedicated to publish significant research findings and latest development in the field of molecular sciences in shape of original papers, reviews, mini-reviews and short communications.

Scope: Fundamental theoretical problems of broad interest in biology, chemistry and physics where molecules are the object to study; important experimental technical progress of broad interest in biology, chemistry and physics, where molecules are the object of study; application of the theories and novel technologies to specific experimental studies and calculations.
